the Lake Mohonk Conference Begins Its Labors.

ETT HALE.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 22.-The Lake Mohonk conference on international arbiopened its thirteenth annual ses-day. The election of officers re-sion today. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler,
New York; secretary, Clinton R. Woodruff, Philadelphia; permanent corresponding secretary, H. C. Phillips, Mohonk
Lake; treasurer, Alexander C. Wood,
Camden, N. J.

President Murray Butler of Columbia university in his address at the opening advocated that the question of disarmament be avoided at this conference, but the restriction of the further growth of the armies and navies be urged. He suggested recommendations for the coming conference at The Hague.

The Company, for it is admitted that the in Ireland of a great assembly to the rates are uniform. The complaint make the laws of Ireland on Irish soil.

Mr. O'Connor was re-elected president of the league.

Frank F. Fretter, secretary of the National Refining company of Cleveland, the principal witness of the company.

Address of Mr. Trueblood.

The present status of the international arbitration movement was the subject of an address by Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society, Boston, who spoke in part as follows: "The movement in whose behalf we have gathered again has reached the age of peculiar interest. It contains features which may well fix the closest attention and even awaken the solicitude of all those who labor and watch for the permanent peace of the world. The movement of some features seems to have ment of some features seems to have reached a practical standstill. No additional treaties of obligatory arbitration between the nations have been concluded since we met last May. Nor has any advancement been made at Washington toward the removal of the disagreement between the president and the senate, which led to the failure of the treaties signed led to the failure of the treaties signed by the late Secretary Hay. Again, The Hague court has not had any controversies referred to it within the year. Even outside of The Hague court there has been almost nothing in the way of arbitration.

No Disputes to Arbitrate.

"It would seem, at first sight, that arbitration which has been so prevalent in recent years, is going out of fashion and is to fall again into disuse. But such a suggestion is as far as possible from being a true interpretation of the situation. The Hague court, it is true, has had no business, but the reason is there have been no disputes of importance between the parties which are parties to it. To arbitrate disputes is an excellent thing, but it is a still more excellent way to so live as not to have guarrels.

thing, but it is a still more excellent way to so live as not to have quarrels.

"From another point of view, also, the cause of arbitration reveals its growing power. All of the organizations, in whatever field, which are laboring for its success, have increased and reinforced success, have increased and reinforced the force during the part year. They their efforts during the past year. They are insisting with one voice that the scope in this increased price at which you of The Hague court shall be extended so as to include all the nations, and its powers increased so far as may be necessary to make it a real international court of well-"We've got to get it back or bust," June 1st to July 2nd, Salt Lake Route, fustice; and that the arbitration treaties already in force shall be supplemented, or rather supplanted by a general treaty of arbitration to be concluded by all the nations acting together; and many of them go so far as to insist that there are no disputes today between governments which may not be honorably settled by a world tribunal of their own creation.

"We've got to get it back or bust," replied Mr. Fretter.

Mr. Fretter thought a fair rate from Cleveland to Omaha would be 22½ cents per 100 pounds.

"In other words, you want to ship oil from Cleveland to Omaha in competition with the producers in the Kansas field?" said Mr. Dawes.

"Yes, that is it," replied the witness.

"Yes, that is it," replied the witness.

No Backward Movement.

This general demand of the enlightened public opinion of the world is a supreme guarantee that the arbitration movement is to be in no sense backward, but up-ward and onward to complete victory. "This conference cannot do better than to reaffirm, if possible with increased emphasis, the conclusions which it reached last year with regard to The conference were outlined in an opening address by Albert K. Smiley. A preliminary report of the committee to interest business men stated that 121 organizations of business men represent-ing thirty-eight states are committed to the arbitration movement.

have no doubt that The Hague tribunal prevented war between England and Russia, at a time when the newspapers, having no first-class adultery or insurance scandals on hand, wanted a war. The delegates to the first Hague conference went there hopeless of result, and yet ninety days, under the lead of America.
